How to Choose an Elevator Company?

Choosing an elevator company is a big step; it'll be part of your home or business for years. You want someone you can trust to give you the best product at a fair price.

Here are some questions to ask potential elevator companies:

1. What experience do you have?
2. How long has your company been in business?
3. What kind of experience do your technicians have?
4. Do you install elevators? Can I watch the installation process? If so, when and where would this be possible?
5. What is your warranty on parts and labor? What does it cover (elevators, panels, etc.)? How long does it last? How much does it cost to extend the warranty from one year to five years (or more)? If a problem arises during the warranty period, will the repair be covered at no charge, or will there be an additional cost for labor and parts?
6. Is a maintenance program available for my new elevator that includes regular inspections by qualified technicians who know how to maintain and service my equipment properly over time without having to call them out whenever something goes wrong or gets stuck?

Safety and Reliability

24 hours a day, 365 days a year, supporting the Safety and Reliability of our customers. Establishing Safe Net Centers At Fujitec, we have established Safe Net Centers in Tokyo and Osaka to ensure safety and reliability for customers.

Safe Net Centers monitor elevators in Japan 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. Furthermore, in the event of a wide-area disaster, such as a large-scale earthquake, both centers have functions to support one another when required. These Safe Net Centers are integral to our maintenance system, and play a key role in facilitating rapid responses in times of emergency, and ensuring optimal preventive maintenance. This support structure has been evaluated highly by elevator owners and managers, providing them with peace of mind.

Developing Safety Awareness

The Fujitec Group prioritizes safety and reliability in all aspects of its business. Due to its very nature, our business is directly linked to our customers' lives. By thoroughly promoting safety awareness on a daily basis and developing safe technologies, we take the necessary steps to ensure safety and reliability for all those associated with the Fujitec Group. To ensure the safety of employees, we (1) provide educational activities to enhance safety awareness; (2) create and share manuals and videos to guarantee safety in the field; and (3) make use of drive recorders and other devices that help to prevent accidents. Moreover, our business involves R&D, sales, manufacturing, installation and maintenance, and the risk factors in each line of work differ greatly. The safety education we provide, therefore, caters to the nature of each division to enhance awareness of safety among our entire workforce.

Earthquake Countermeasures in Our Elevators

Due to the unpredictable nature of earthquakes, thorough preparation is essential for safe living. To minimize injury and damage to users and elevators during an earthquake, we have established a comprehensive set of functions and services. Through rapid detection, confinement prevention, and quick recovery, we aim to provide users with safety and reliability.

Hosting a Competition to Test the Skills of Engineers

Hosting a Competition to Test the Skills of Engineers

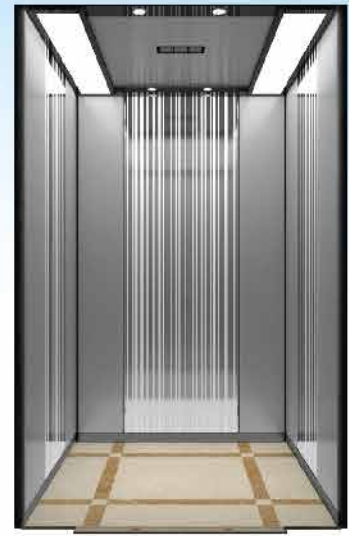

As one initiative to develop human resources, we hold skills-based competitions for our field engineers in Japan and overseas. In Japan, every year we alternate between the National Installation/Renovation Technique Competition and the National Maintenance Technique Competition. In addition to checking the skills of field engineers, the event provides an opportunity for technical exchanges among engineers and for improving individual skills.

Overseas, we hold the Fujitec Global Field Engineering Skill Competition, which was held in Singapore in 2019.
